These two adorable brothers are looking for their homes together!

They are timid boys who are still getting used to human affection and it will take a little time for them to settle and come out of their shell in a new home. Their confidence is growing all the time and with gentle handling and patience they will undoubtedly grow into lovely friendly cats. They are timid with new people and it can take a while for him to approach you. They do enjoy playing with toys and this will be good to help them come round.

They would benefit from a quiet home where they can take their time to become friendly and confident cats. Potential adopters will need to understand that it will take time and patience to help him bloom into a friendly and confident cat.

They would require a quiet home where they would be the only pets. They could live with cat savvy children over the age of 14.

They will require access to the outdoors so cannot be rehomed on a main road or near a railway.

This assessment is ongoing and behaviours may change.
